

THE PRACTICE OF MEDICINE IS UNDER ATTACK...

Join Your Colleagues and Fight Back!

Government bureaucrats dictate necessary treatments. Managed care plans want you pledge allegiance to them rather than to your patients. Government agencies issue confusing regulations that proliferate faster than the IRS.

Doctors are capriciously prosecuted for violating ever-changing regulations, resulting in financial and professional ruin. You and your staff spend more time on compliance than on patient care, while reimbursement rates plummet.

Many doctors believe the best they can do now is go along to get along. But the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons refuses to accept that rhetoric from other organized medical groups. It's time for physicians to reclaim control of our profession

THE AAPS MISSION

Since 1943, AAPS has been the only national association of physicians in all specialties dedicated to preserving and protecting the sanctity of the patient-physician relationship and promoting the practice of private medicine. We're working to keep third-parties -- whether the government, insurance companies, or healthcare plans -- out of the examining room and medical records.
