

MEDICAL STUDENTS:

Fed up with the increasing control of government in medicine?

Starting to wonder whether you really want to practice medicine in today's corporate climate?

Learn more about private medicine and the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons (AAPS) at:

AAPS is a non-partisan professional association of physicians in all types of practices and specialties across the country.

Join the group that doesn't just talk about the problems in medicine – we take action!

Since 1943, AAPS has been dedicated to the highest ethical standards and to preserving the sanctity of the patient-doctor relationship and the practice of private medicine

Our motto, "omnia pro aegroto," means "all for the patient."

Isn't that why you want to practice medicine?

AAPS historically has been for physicians already in private practice. However, the threats of corporate managed care and socialized medicine have made such inroads into medical education that AAPS is now actively seeking medical student members and is sponsoring the creation of a medical student section.

Student membership is free, and includes free subscriptions to all AAPS publications and free access to our Limited Legal Consultation Service. Membership also allows students to take advantage of AAPS materials, lobbying, contests, internships in Washington, D.C. and mentoring from experienced doctors.

Plus, we'll waive your registration fees at workshops and meetings featuring national experts and lawmakers.

Become one of the national leaders in health care policy:

AAPS has positions for state organizers and grassroots leaders.
